NASAL CATARRH

THE SYSTEM.

Catarrh consists of inflammation beginning behind and a little above the vell of the palate, and extending upward into the nose and air cavities of the face. It creates a perpetual desire to swallow, and causes a leeling as if something was sticking in the upper and back part of the throat. As the discase becomes chronic, the matter concretes into hardened lumps, the matter secreted becomes puriform, the breath is offensive, and the voice assumes a masal twang, while, on rising in the morning, great effort is required to c car the head and throat. There is often a feeling of pressure across the lower part of the forehead, causing headache, dizziness, and confusion of thought and loss of memory.

The sense of smell becomes impaired, the Gyes are weak, and, as the inflammation extends up the custacelan tubes into the internal ear there is partial deafness with throbbing, humming or ringing noises in the ear. In sleep the Catarrial matter is unceased by swallowed, which, in time, derausing dyspepsia and a multiplicity of discordant symptoms, which are often mistaken for other diseases. To the foregoing add the fact that every breath of air drawn into the longs is drawn over the diseased surface, festering with Catarrial matter, and who can deny the assertion that to neglect Catarria is to arrie Consumption.

Consumption is the one prevailing disease, at the present day, with which the young and maidle-aged die. And yet very seldon do the lungs receive the primary shock. It is first "a cold in the head," which resolves into Chronic Catarria, from which the su effects no alarm, until, step by step, it reaches the lungs, when all attempts at cure are list the better than blind experiments.

With every incentive to enjoyment and usefulness, there are hundreds all around us dying in the moraling of life, of Consumption, who can nook back six months, a year, or longer, as the case may be, to a time when the was "but caterria," be effected at a time when preparty headed he are was possible, shelly and almost imperceptibly it has transformed the bright, raddy features of youth into the dull, wan listlessness of premature age, as it has drunk up the vitadity from the bloost and fuids of the wasted frame, and now, when hope is dead, and the life forces one by one are abbling away, the might have been," and tremblingly forward to what soon must be.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir. I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined, but with rio us instances, my own family, of the too my constances, my own family, of the use of Dr. man Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, express my full conviction that, for general debitage of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fall; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully, From Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, D. D.
